

Sizeler Thompson Brown Architects Named one of Top Designers by South Central Construction Magazine

Sizeler Thompson Brown Architects (STBA) was among 80 top design firms in the five-state south central region named in the October issue of South Central Construction magazine published by McGraw Hill. STBA was the only Louisiana design firm - and one of just three regional firms -- whose architectural projects were featured in the issue. Additionally STBA's Jefferson Parish General Government Building in Gretna was pictured on the cover of the issue.

The 'Top 80 Designers' list focuses on architectural and engineering firms with permanent offices in Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee who were selected from an extensive database of designers, after completing a detailed survey and having their information confirmed by appropriate contractors. The 'Top Designers' are listed by rank according to their 2007 billings. STBA ranked 22nd in the top 80.

"We are pleased to be the only Louisiana firm selected in this competitive process," stated Billy Sizeler, principal and founder of Sizeler Thompson Brown Architects. "We especially appreciate being cited for our efforts in re-building New Orleans in the post-Katrina era, including our participation in the renovation of the Louisiana Superdome.
